

“Sleepy Time Sydney”

by Loyd Elmore Jr., copyright 2017

Opening narration:

Sydney Ernst has never had a good night’s sleep. It’s not from stress or worry from the waking world, but from what the dreams bring. And it’s from the knowledge of what he must face in the morning—what his dreams cause in the night. For him, there is no sleep in.....the Twilight Zone.

Closing narration:

It looks like the kingdom of sleep has a new ruler with Sydney Ernst. It’s a land that he will get to know for a long time. But the world he left behind will have to deal with his absence and the chaos, the undying storm. And the storm will rage on without the controller, for he is lost in the Twilight Zone.
