

“Tired of Winning”

by Doug Molitor, copyright 2017

Opening Narration:

“Submitted for your approval, one Donald J. Trump, a man of limited intellect who made an unwise wish and won an election that gave him unlimited power. But Mr. Trump is about to learn that ignorance is not wisdom, bullying is not strength, and the only mandate he can claim comes from voters who are registered in... The Twilight Zone.”

Closing Narration:

“Portrait of a winner: Mr. Trump wished to be rich, wished to be a star, and wished to be the most powerful man on earth. But his heart’s desires coming true did not fill the hole inside him. It is said that the last wish on the Monkey’s Paw is always for death. And as president, Mr. Trump definitely has that power, over himself and everyone else on earth. Leaving anyone with an ounce of sanity to wish that instead of reality, we were watching an episode of... The Twilight Zone.”